Prohibited Practices

Introduction

MDLF has a clear framework that defines prohibited practices within it's Code of Ethics that ensures adherence to the highest standards of integrity, transparency, and efficiency, while safeguarding the MDLF's resources and reputation.

Prohibited Practices

All stakeholders dealing with MDLF are strictly prohibited from engaging in any of the following actions:

1. Fraud: Submitting false or misleading information or documents.

2. Bribery: Offering or accepting any personal benefit intended to influence decisions or procedures.

3. Conflict of Interest: Any conduct that prioritizes personal interest over the MDLF's interest without prior disclosure.

4. Favoritism or Discrimination: Providing unequal treatment to any party based on personal relationships or other non-professional considerations.

5. Misuse of Resources: Exploiting MDLF's assets, data, or resources for personal or unauthorized purposes.

6. Unauthorized Disclosure: Sharing official information or documents with parties who are not duly authorized.

7. Professional Misconduct: Any behavior inconsistent with applicable laws, regulations, or the MDLF's Code of Ethics.

Enforcement Mechanisms

- Compliance is mandatory for all stakeholders.
- Any violation shall subject the offender to disciplinary measures that may include referral to relevant regulatory or judicial authorities.
